

We build strong kids,
strong families, strong communities.

YMCA Code of Conduct

- YMCA members must teach the Y's values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility to others so they know what the values mean.
- YMCA members must ask others to practice the values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility over and over.
- YMCA members must confront behavior that is inconsistent with the values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility in a productive way.
- If you see people behaving inappropriately, take responsibility by asking them to demonstrate our four core values. We are a fellowship of members who should support the actions of one another.
- YMCA members must consistently model the values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility with behavior so others can see the values in action. It is amazing how a friendly game of basketball, or a busy wellness center can turn into frustration. Respect each other by refraining from anger, profanity, or other offensive behavior.
- YMCA members must celebrate the values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility and hold them up as what is right in order to help people grow stronger.
- YMCA members must consistently affirm, reinforce and reward behaviors that support the values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility.
- Acknowledge positive behavior with a verbal comment. Praise goes a long way, especially with kids.